

FLEXFRAME SOFTBOX

FOR PORTABLE FLASHES

USER MANUAL

THANK YOU FOR CHOOSING VELLO

The Vello FlexFrame Softbox for Portable Flash diffuses the light from a speedlight and improves the tonal quality illuminating the subject. The removable front diffuser can reduce shadows and hot spots where the shoe-mount flash creates unflattering light harshness. Unique to this small and portable softbox is the fiberglass frame incorporating jointed rods for quick setup and easy folding. A touch fastener cinch strap is included for securely mounting the softbox onto the head of a portable flash unit. This is a perfect tool for an intermediate or professional photographer who wants to put a new look into their photography.

Attaching the FlexFrame

1. Wrap the touch fastener cinch strap around the head of the flash unit with the edge of the cinch strap even with the edge of the flash head. Make sure this is done with the rubber side touching the flash head.

2. Place the bottom of the flash head against the bottom mounting tab of the softbox, just about halfway into the softbox.

3. Gently lift the top mounting tab and fit the flash head into the softbox.

4. The FlexFrame softbox should now be mounted onto your portable flash. You can make micro adjustments to fit the desired position.

2. Continue rocking the softbox forward until it disengages fully from the touch fastener cinch strap on the head of the portable flash.

Closing the FlexFrame Softbox

1. Each of the four fiberglass jointed rods has a tab. Pull each tab, upward, until the joint releases.
2. Place your hands around the four corners of the softbox and gently squeeze all four corners simultaneously inward.

3. For storage, place the softbox in the provided drawstring bag. Then place the cinch strap and front diffuser inside for safekeeping.
